What is a Political Consultant?

Before considering specific political analysts, it’s worth exploring, in a general sense, what a political consultancy is.
Political consultants are individuals or firms that partner with candidates or groups to help them promote their interests. Most political consultants have an educational background in journalism, communications or political science.

Some of the skills required for success in the demanding field of political consultancy include excellent written and verbal communication skills, an understanding of the political system, and the ability to effectively convey ideas.

Their role may include the creation and implementation of political campaign strategies, coordination of campaign staff, and the development of meetings and events that allow the public to interact with a certain campaign or group.

Political consultants often have broad talents and skillsets, so they may be able to unite advertising, public relations, fundraising, and marketing to help propel campaigns forward.

Uniquely, most political consultants also have strong sales skills because they’re essentially “selling” a candidate or an idea. Along with selling an individual candidate or group to the public, political consultants are also frequently charged with fundraising duties.

Many lobbyists that work on behalf of organizations and companies are also considered political consultants.

In these cases, instead of selling the public on a particular candidate, lobbyists will work to “sell” government officials on a company so they vote for legislation that will be beneficial to the organization.

How Do You Select a Political Consulting Firm or Consultant?

For whatever reason you might opt to work with a political consulting firm, you’ll have many to choose from.

Consider the following criteria when selecting the right political consultancy:

Campaign Scope
What type of campaign will you need to launch? Will it be a local, state, or national campaign? This will be a predominant determining factor in the selection process because many political consulting firms may specialize in one area over another.

Budget

What is your budget? Working with an independent political consultant may be significantly less expensive than hiring a full-scale consulting firm with extensive experience and resources.

Specific Expertise

Are you looking for specialization in certain political areas or issues? You may be running a campaign centered on one particular issue, and there are political consulting firms that specialize in niche areas.

Depending on your target audience, you may also want to work specifically with either Republican or Democratic political consulting firms.

Political Consulting Experience

What type of campaign is the political consultancy most experienced in? If you’re launching a large national campaign, you might want a political marketing firm that specializes in television ads and media.

On the other hand, for a local campaign, your focus could be on direct mail. Whatever type of campaign you’re most focused on delivering will help guide you through the process of selecting the best political analyst.

GMMB Review

Partnering with political campaigns, nonprofits, the media, and creative agencies, GMMB works with clients both large and small to solve problems and bring attention to issues.

GMMB works on everything from the implementation of political strategies to planning for paid media campaigns. The firm is known for its use of advanced and innovative techniques, including digital analytics, micro-targeting, and media organization.

As one of the top political consulting firms, GMMB worked as one of the lead agencies for Barack Obama in 2008 and 2012. It also worked on the election of Bill Clinton as well as global leaders, senators, governors, mayors, and more, from all levels of government.

Located in Seattle and Washington, DC, GMMB has established itself as one of the top political consulting firms in DC and across the nation.

Key Factors That Allowed GMMB to Rank Among the Best Political Consulting Firms

Highlighted below are some of the details that went into the selection of GMMB as one of the top political consulting firms in DC.
Brand Strategy

GMMB bills itself as a "mission-driven agency," and it brings that same concept to the brands it works with. Along with political consulting, GMMB will partner with clients either to revamp existing brands or help clients who are just starting out.

The branding process is intensive when working with GMMB, and includes discovering truths about the brand to gain a better understanding of who it really is.

It then moves to an evaluation of factors such as culture, consumers, and causes. It’s only then the GMMB team will create a distinctive positioning statement that determines the brand story and messaging.

Diverse, Skilled Team

Political marketing and consulting can be a complicated process, and the best political consulting firms recognize the inherent advantages that come from a diverse, skilled team.

The team of political consultants at GMMB come from a diverse range of educational, professional, and personal backgrounds. This strength is easily seen through images, biographies, and quick facts about the firm demographic, like:
- More than half of the firm’s political consultants have visited 10 or more countries
- 18 percent have advanced degrees, including JDs and PHDs
- Almost 40 percent wrote for their high school or college newspaper
- Nearly 1 in 10 have jumped out of a plane

Left Hook is quickly establishing itself as one of the top Democratic political consulting firms, helping candidates win their races on every level.

Launched in May 2017, Left Hook may be one of the newest political consulting firms on our list, but its founding partners bring a wealth of expertise and experience.

Led by partners Raghu Devaguptapu, Brandon Hall, Joel Kliksberg, and Rachel Ostendorf, Left Hook provides a fresh approach to political and public affairs campaigns.
The firm operates out of three different locations (Chicago, Los Angeles, and Washington, DC) to provide award-winning political campaign strategies across the nation.

Key Factors That Enabled Us to Rank Left Hook as One of the Best Political Consulting Firms

Listed below are unique factors of Left Hook leading to its inclusion on this ranking of the best political consulting firms.

Wide Range of Services

As a top political consultancy, Left Hook provides clients with a diverse range of political campaign strategies to choose from, including:

- Strategy Consulting
- Message & Creative Development
- Communications & Crisis Management
- In-House Advertisement Production
- Micro-Targeting & Data Science
- Media Training & Debate Prep
- Social Media & Search
- Media Buying & Placement

Looking at these services as a whole, Left Hook is a political consultancy that doesn’t shy away from collaboration, customization, and in-depth research.

Proven Expertise

Their in-house production service is particularly unique, as the firm writes, produces, directs, and designs advertisements for their clients.

Not only does this cut out the middle man, but their production services are some of the best in the political consulting industry.

Advertising work by partner Rachel Ostendorf has been recognized by the New York Times, MSNBC, and more for being “powerful,” “striking,” and “standing out in a sea of advertisements.”

Raghu Devaguptapu was recently awarded with a listing on Politico’s Power Players as one of “DC’s go-to ad makers,” adding to the firm’s authority in devising successful political advertising strategies.
Additionally, Brandon Hall has been named “campaign manager of the year” by the AAPC for his work on Democratic Leader Harry Reid’s campaign, and Joel Kliksberg was named the Chief of Staff at ABC News at the young age of 27.

Rating Summary

Left Hook stands out for their political consulting expertise, wide range of services, notable client list, and impressive track record of successful campaign strategies.

What truly sets Left Hook apart from other political consulting firms in DC, Chicago, or Los Angeles, is the way the firm’s energy and personality is communicated.

From service listings to case studies to partner profiles, the firm’s website is engaging, creative, and straight-to-the-point, all factors which have undoubtedly contributed to their success.

However, despite their personable, engaging platform, Left Hook receives a 3-star rating due to a lack of firm-specific information.

While potential clients can view each partner’s extensive background and industry successes within their individual profiles, the firm website lacks information on their history, founding, mission statement, or values.

Adding this information to the page would easily bump this top political consulting firm into a 5-star rating, placing them among the highest tier of political consulting firms.

Littlefield Associates & Consulting Review

Founded in 2008, Littlefield Associates & Consulting provides political campaign strategies and public policies for Republican candidates in various governmental levels.

The firm’s founder, Brent Littlefield, has a long list of industry recognition and accolades, including guest lecturing appearances and providing commentary for leading television networks, publications, magazines.

Although Littlefield Associates & Consulting may have a strong track record, our review found a few key reasons why clients may want to opt for another political consulting firm instead.

Rating Summary

See below for an in-depth overview of why Littlefield Associates & Consulting receives a 1-star rating, including what the firm can do to improve their ranking.

Outdated Website

In today’s political consulting industry, having an updated, user-friendly website is imperative for any political consulting firm.

Not only does it represent the quality of the firm, but a great website can do wonders to generate new clients and ensure that a political consultancy remains competitive over time.

Unfortunately, the website for Littlefield Associates & Consulting is significantly outdated in comparison to the top political consulting firms, with font that is difficult to read, grammatical errors, and a general lack of disorganization.

By improving and updating their website, the firm would not only increase its competitiveness, but it would also improve the way that potential clients view the firm, showing professionalism and pride.
No Recent Work

According to the firm’s video reel of past work, the most recent case studies for political campaign strategies are from 2010. Similarly, recent news coverage posted by the firm dates from 2015, representing a significant lapse in activity.

According to the Bangor Daily News, Littlefield is currently providing political consulting services for Maine Republican Shawn Moody in his upcoming gubernatorial nomination.

Even so, with published case studies dating back seven years and a full two years without news coverage, Littlefield Associates & Consulting is falling significantly behind compared to the top political consulting firms.

By posting more recent media mentions, Littlefield would improve their rating and demonstrate that this political consultancy remains active, involved, and engaged within the industry.

Strategy & Mobilization

This top political consulting firm is dedicated to helping clients create strategies that act as detailed roadmaps to their ultimate objectives.

Precision Strategies also focuses on mobilization, which is ideal for political organizations as well as nonprofits who want to raise awareness for their cause.

As part of its mobilization services, the Precision team helps clients identify goals, understand the environment they’ll be part of, and evaluate their assets.

Experienced Leadership

Two of the founding partners of Precision Strategy are women, and one of them includes Stephanie Cutter, who was called one of the “most prominent voices in the Democratic party” by Politico.
She has created communications and crisis management strategies for some of the top companies in the country, and she served as the deputy campaign manager for President Obama’s 2012 reelection campaign.

Previously, Cutter was deputy senior adviser to President Obama, and she also worked on other notable political consulting movements, including First Lady Michelle Obama’s Let’s Move! campaign.

Jen O’Malley Dillon is the second founding partner, bringing extensive political consulting experience as Deputy Campaign Manager for Obama’s reelection campaign and the first-ever Executive Director of the Democratic National Committee.

She also worked as the lead consultant to Justin Trudeau and the Liberal Party of Canada, using data-driven organizing to propel Trudeau into one of the biggest moments in Canadian political history.

The third founding partner, Teddy Goff, leads the firm’s digital practice, with TIME once describing his work as “redefining the limits of viral politics.”

Goff was influential in both the 2008 and 2012 Obama reelection campaign, with his work being featured in TIME, Bloomberg Businessweek, Rolling Stone, New York Magazine, BuzzFeed, and The New York Times.

Rating Summary

It’s hard to find a political consultancy with the depth of expertise and real-world experience to match that of Precision Strategy.

All three of the firm’s founders have vast political consulting backgrounds, with a long list of successes and industry recognitions to validate their expertise.

With a keen focus on strategy, actionable data, mobilization, and an impressive depth of industry experience, Precision Strategy is one of the top political consulting firms to consider partnering with this year.

SKDKnickerbocker Review

With offices in Washington, New York, Los Angeles, and Albany, SKDKnickerbocker (SKDK) is a public affairs and political consulting firm focusing on working with corporations, issues visibility, and political campaigns.

SKDK has worked with Fortune 500 companies, nonprofits and philanthropic organizations, labor unions, political committees, and campaigns.

It prides itself on having a firm understanding of where press, politics, and policy all unite, helping clients navigate a crisis, protect their brand, bring awareness or attention to an issue, and win an election at any level.

Key Factors That Enabled SKDKnickerbocker to Be Named as One of the Best Political Consulting Firms

Specific reasons SKDK was selected as one of the top political consulting firms are listed below.

Strategic Communications

At SKDK, strategic communications places emphasis on not just communicating the right message, but also in breaking through the 24-hour news cycle with measurable results.

Managing directors at SKDK, one of the leading Democratic political consulting firms, have significant experience in not just politics and government but also media and business.

Some specific areas of political consulting services offered through strategic communications include:

- Public and Media Relations
- Crisis Communications
- Message Development
- Branding
- Social Media
Another notable service is Media Training, in which political consultants educate clients on how to interact with the media, including how to sit, stand, gesture, and pause efficiently during an interview.

Women’s Leadership and Advocacy Practice

As part of SKDK’s political campaign strategies, the firm maintains a Women’s Leadership and Advocacy Practice, providing clients with strategic communications, research insights, partnerships, and community-building support.

The initiative was launched based on many decades of helping female clients get elected as well as leading on campaigns focused on women’s rights.

Fully integrated into public affairs, digital, executive communications, and political practice areas, the team includes award-winning female leaders with extensive experience in both media and political consulting.

The Women’s Leadership and Advocacy Practice can greatly benefit clients through:

- Providing messaging insights & guidance
- Building a base of support from third parties & influencers
- Training for media interviews & hearings
- Crafting social media strategies
- Pursuing speaking opportunities & other recognition
- Writing speeches, opinion pieces, & more

Rating Summary
There’s no denying that SKDKnickerbocker is a force to be reckoned with in the political consulting industry.

With extensive experience in political campaign strategies, social issues, and corporate messaging, SKDK will likely continue to be one of the leading Democratic political consulting firms for decades to come.

Particularly notable is the firm’s dedication to women’s advocacy, shown through their Women’s Leadership and Advocacy Practice as well as their body of work.

SKDK has consulted for Planned Parenthood, ran promotions for the Women’s March in Washington, DC, and assisted non-profit She Should Run to develop a strategic launch of an election-themed Barbie doll.

While SKDK is currently under criticism for allegedly advising Harvey Weinstein, AdvisoryHQ—along with many other media publications—has been unable to find concrete evidence to support these allegations.

In fact, as reported in BuzzFeed, the firm released this statement:

Today you may have seen a news report indicating that our colleague Anita Dunn recently advised Harvey Weinstein. Anita was asked to speak with him by a friend. Harvey Weinstein and Miramax are not now and have never been clients of our firm or of Anita’s. If you know Anita, you can only imagine what she said to him. Our commitment to defending women’s rights remains as strong as ever.

Unfortunately, at the time of this writing, the above statement—or any mention of these allegations—does not seem to be available on the firm’s website, decreasing transparency between SKDK and their clients.

Based on this misstep with transparency, SKDK receives a 3-star rating for the time being.

Storefront Political Media Review
Storefront Political Media is a full-service political consulting firm that relies on the usage of big data to help campaigns target voters, build coalitions, and ultimately win their campaigns.

This leader among Democratic political consulting firms is unique because it brings together elements of both traditional and digital media.

A few political consulting clients have included Reset San Francisco, Houston Mayor Sylvester Turner, the American Beverage Association, and Pacific Gas & Electric Company.

Key Factors That Led Us to Rank Storefront Political Media as One of the Best Political Consulting Firms

The details below represent reasons why Storefront Political Media was selected as one of the top ranking political consulting firms.

Innovative Perspective

Rather than relying on the ineffective traditional campaign model, Storefront’s team of experts look at campaign engagements in a modern framework.

As such, campaigns are based on continual discussions with voters instead of outdated messaging tactics.
These voter discussions are used as the primary methodology to introduce campaigns and candidates to voters and continue ongoing conversations that let them reinforce their message.

Varied Communication Tools

Paid media is an important aspect of campaigns at Storefront—at the same time, however, there’s a belief that communication should be incredibly varied and include ongoing free and low-cost options.

These means of communication often get overlooked in campaigns, so this idea is one that certainly sets Storefront apart as one of the most pioneering Democratic political consulting firms.

Storefront believes that engaging messages can be delivered just as effectively in person or by trusted messengers, helping clients support a large message with a small budget.

Rating Summary

As a top political consulting firm, Storefront Political Media puts a strong focus on providing innovative perspectives and engaging political campaign strategies.

Storefront is also the parent company to three political marketing branches: Storefront Digital, SpeakEasy, and I Agree to See.

With the ability to create innovative digital campaign strategies, affordable mailing materials, and an established advertising platform, clients have access to a wide range of resources, giving Storefront a 5-star rating as a top-rated political analyst.
